In the history of the United States, there has only been four women members, two black members and one Hispanic member of the Supreme Court. Intelligence and reason cannot be developed absent the judgment that is formed by prolonged and thoughtful study of history, literature, and culture, not only that of our own nation, but that of other civilizations. So the election of the president was placed in the hands of an Electoral College. What are we going to do? Only stories written after that date, he said, were likely to have acceptable language and appropriate multicultural sensitivity. When he demonized Mexico and unauthorized immigrants, he gained more in the Electoral College by mobilizing white voters than he lost by alienating Latinos. While Congress as an institution is held in popular contempt, voters like the effect, therefore, the Presidential election is not one election but History is not destiny.
